

Insurance Coverage for Turo – Frequently Asked Questions

Background

1. What is the sharing economy?

The sharing economy is a new, rapidly growing market in which people offer to rent their assets—such as their vehicle or home, or services as a driver—to their peers through an online platform. These platforms provide information on both the consumer and the provider of the services and assets, including ratings from previous users, allowing for a level of trust that otherwise would be difficult to establish.

2. What is Turo?

Turo is a peer-to-peer car rental (or car sharing) platform that enables vehicle owners to list their personal vehicles online and rent them out to approved Turo renters. The result is an affordable and diverse selection of vehicles available to renters, and a source of extra income for owners.

3. What is a peer-to-peer car rental marketplace?

Peer-to-peer car rental, sometimes referred to as car sharing, is a sharing economy business model where vehicle owners can generate income from their vehicles. Participating vehicle owners rent out their personal vehicles to an online community of car renters.

4. How is peer-to-peer car rental different from ride sharing?

Peer-to-peer car rental, sometimes referred to as car sharing, is very different from ride sharing. With a car sharing service like Turo, the vehicle changes possession and the owner is not present while it's being shared. With ride sharing services, the owner of the vehicle acts as a driver and offers on-demand transportation for passengers.

5. Why is Intact Financial Corporation associating itself with Turo?

Coverage for Vehicle Renters

8. If I rent a vehicle with Turo, how am I covered?

Renters, as the drivers of the rented vehicles, are provided protection under Turo's commercial insurance policy for the duration of the rental period, for third-party liability coverage and standard accident benefits up to the limits of the policy. Liability for physical damage to the rented vehicle will be dependent on the physical damage protection package that is chosen by the renter when they book a vehicle on turo.com.

If renters hold their own personal auto insurance policy, then this policy will be considered primary in the priority of payments in the event of a claim. Personal auto policies may extend third-party liability coverage to non-owned vehicles. Depending on the coverage provided under your personal auto policy, you may also be covered for physical damage for non-owned vehicles. Renters should confirm their coverage with their insurance broker or insurer directly.

9. As a renter, do I need my own personal automobile insurance?

Turo does not require that renters have their own personal automobile insurance coverage in order to use the Turo marketplace.

10. If my credit card offers coverage for a car rental booked using the card, will it provide coverage for renting with Turo?

It is unlikely a credit card company would provide coverage for a vehicle rented through the Turo marketplace as they may not consider Turo a "rental car company". Renters should contact their credit card company to discuss the specifics of their coverage.
